Summary

While graduating with a certificate in full stack development from the University of Central Florida, I've always been passionate about the code I write. Taking the skills I've learned in JavaScript, CSS, HTML, and Node.js to further expand my abilities as a programmer to bring the user a product that's built with care and dedication. My exceptional ability to organize and analyze will continue to develop with me as I sharpen my programming skills as a full-stack developer each day. I plan to help shape the user experience over the internet, one smile at a time.
